Two powers

‘Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego... neither serve your gods nor worship the image of gold you have set up.’

Daniel 3:12

There are two kinds of power on display in this story: the power of domination, and the power of God’s dominion.

The Babylonian empire was a symbol of domination. The wealth and excess of the royal court was built off the back of military conquests – the vulnerable trodden upon so that the powerful could rise higher. The golden gods that the king had made were a dazzling representation of this. But these three Jews refused to bow down.

Because they were aware of a different kind of power. Kingdom of heaven power.

Worldly kingdoms dominate; the heavenly kingdom liberates. Worldly kingdoms marginalise; the heavenly kingdom includes. Worldly kingdoms control; the heavenly kingdom serves. Worldly kingdoms are centred on the self; the heavenly kingdom pours itself out for others.

Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego refused to bow down before the power of domination. They trusted instead in God’s dominion. They chose the power of love, not the love of power.

Dear God, give us the courage and conviction to refuse the gods and images of gold in our lives. And help us to always choose love. Amen.

I believe in God, creator of the earth

“Never, ever, throw anything in the water,” my father taught me when we were out fishing, pop bottles and sandwich wrappers all over the bottom of the little skiff. “Never, ever, throw cans out a car window,” my mother warned as I finished the last of an afternoon snack in the back seat. These other messages were the descant against which I lived my young life: Don’t ever hurt an animal. Don’t ever keep more fish than you can eat. Don’t ever use more of anything than you need. Don’t waste anything. Don’t ever dig up flower gardens. Don’t ever trample down small trees. Don’t ever hurt a baby bird.

Why? Because, that’s why. Because making a garbage heap out of the water and the woods, my property or nobody’s property, destroyed the beauty and goodness of creation. Because destroying another being just for the sake of destroying it took life in vain. Because creation was good and each part of it had its own purpose that’s why. Because we were to walk through life on tiptoe, as part of creation, not as predators with swollen bellies and bloated souls. We were to learn from animals and care for flowers, to have enough and never too much.

Our Father, Who art in heaven
Hallowed be Thy Name;
Thy kingdom come,
Thy will be done,
on earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread,
and forgive us our trespasses,
as we forgive those who trespass
against us;
and lead us not into temptation,
but deliver us from evil.
Amen.

The Shack

Time passes, but Mack is unable to get past the tragedy. It affects his relationships with the rest of his family, in a period described as “The Great Sadness.” One day, a mysterious note turns up in his mailbox asking him to come to that very same shack the next weekend and signed “Papa,” which just happens to be Nan’s pet nickname for God. When he gets there, he initially finds nothing, but, as he is getting ready to leave, the surroundings change from frigid nothingness to a lush, lovely environment and the shack is now a spiffy domicile housing a version of the Holy Trinity in which God—sorry, Papa—is an African-American woman (Octavia Spencer), Jesus (Avraham Aviv Alush) is a carpenter of Middle-Eastern descent and the Holy Spirit is represented as an Asian woman named Sarayu (Sumire Matsubara). Over the next three days, Mack opens up to the three of them in ways that allow him to mend his relationships with them, learn to forgive and gain some closure regarding Missy’s death.

Cherry - Rhubarb Cobbler

Ingredients

1 can cherry pie filling, OR frozen cherries add 4 tbsp corn starch and 1 cup sugar
3 cups chopped rhubarb, or other fruit
1 cup sugar
4 tbsp butter
Crust:
1/2 c butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup flour
1 tsp baking powder
1/2 cup milk

Instructions

Spread fruit in a 13x9 baking pan. Sprinkle with sugar and dot with butter.

For Crust: cream butter and sugar in a mixing bowl, add egg and beat well. Combine flour and B. powder, add alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Pour over fruit. Add more milk if the batter is too stiff.

Bake at 350 for 50 - 60 minutes.

NOTE: Check to make sure the topping is cooked right through, it may take extra time.

Makes 12 servings

Hi all,

For those who would like to try, here is the cherry/rhubarb cobbler recipe. If the rhubarb is not ready just use all cherries or you could add some frozen strawberries or even blueberries.
