Punchline By Jim Pepper

The Cider Mill

When we were kids in Port Dover around the ages of 10 to 14, we had a favourite haunt to visit on Saturday's where we always felt welcome. The reward for the trek was refreshing and good. That place was Lynn Waddle's Cider Mill nestled alongside the Lynn River and accessible by walking up the now long gone CNR railway tracks north, out of Port Dover. (The old roadbed now makes up part of the Lynn Valley Trail.) Nothing was better on a cool, crisp fall morning than to set out with a can of pork and beans, a jackknife for an opener, a few matches and a bottle of Hires Root Beer for sustenance. All this was happily carried along in a prized khaki army surplus back pack. That made our lunch with constant bickering over which Pork and Beans were the best. I liked Clark's.

Lynn was a jolly, portly man always attired in denim overalls, black rubber boots and a straw hat all coupled with a welcoming smiling face and a ready laugh. He must have loved kids because he put up with us Dover brats and always seemed happy for the company. Of course we earned our keep and more importantly our free, fresh cider. Lynn ran the mill with water power, and that in itself was a treat to see operate with a slowly turning water wheel hooked to a series of belts and shafts that in turn ran the apple grinder. As kids we'd help dump in the apples. By today's health standards this is where things went off the rails, but we survived. First off, almost any condition of apple made the grade, the chopper was a Rube Goldberg series of spiked teeth that spun as they chopped, and all the hashed up apple mixture dropped onto a press platform where it sat between increasingly high layers of oft used burlap. With Lynn's muscled assistance we got to turn down the spoked wheel to make the press squeeze out the juice which then ran down a chute making countless flies take flight. The sweet, amber liquid was run off into pint and gallon bottles for quick sale. However there was a house cup. After Lynn assessed the quality, we were free to drink as much as we wanted, and we did! We were kids!!!

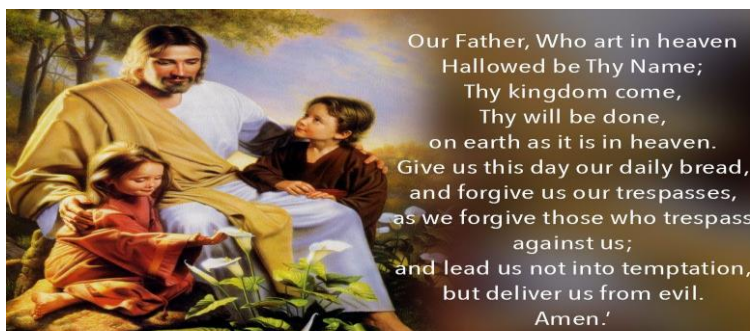

Have you ever had freshly squeezed apple cider in the copious quantities that each of us got to drink? If you have, then needless to say you'd know that the trip back to Dover was fraught with many stops... many, many stops.

For the week beginning Sunday August 8, 2021, we will be praying for our Long Point Bay Parish, specially for our family of the church of St. John's Port Rowan.

OUR OUTREACH ON RWANDA #12

By JoAnne Easton

Lines and Tales - from Rwanda-

I also want to highlight several of the people whom I have been to Rwanda with in some cases several times. Even though our goals and purpose are serious, as we travel to Rwanda, we also intend to enjoy, learn, laugh and have fun. Therefore, to reflect this attitude, Bonnie and I came up with our title of "Lines and Tales" originally used to share stories while we were in Rwanda. with our co-workers through the newsletter of Nanticoke Generating Station. We felt "Lines and Tales was nicely illustrated by a resident of Rwanda, who happens to have lines and a tail. While the tales I tell are delivered in lines for you to read.

Today let me focus on Bonnie Olmstead, whom I worked with at OPG. Bonnie, who originally was a mechanical maintainer at OPG, has been to Rwanda 4 times and set up the Welding program. This she planned for her first visit and since at that time it took about 600 Rwanda Francs for 1 Canadian dollar, both of us had a stack of bills (8 inches high) when we visited Kigali to shop for Welders and Welding supplies. We were inexperienced and had no idea how to secure these items but our hosts delivered us with a truck, a driver and a translator to the right stores. Bonnie, through the translator determined what two welders to purchase. I was sitting in the truck while the final discussions were being completed, when I then saw Bonnie walk out of this shop following a young man heading for a narrow alley between the buildings. This didn't look too safe so I hopped out of the truck and tried to catch up. I found them and there was Bonnie in a field of different types of steel, choosing what was needed to start a class. At that time, it was not common to see two white women shopping for welders and welding supplies. It probably still is not common but two white women in Kigali wasn't as common as it is now.

People like Bonnie are very valuable to the success of the students as they share knowledge and relationships are formed. I will continue to share more on what she contributed and others in the following writings.

Will continue again next week...

August

August's birthstones are the peridot, sardonyx, and spinel.

Its birth flower is the gladiolus or poppy, meaning beauty, strength of character, love, marriage and family.

The Western zodiac signs for the month of August are Leo (until August 22) and Virgo (from August 23 onwards).

August is a gentle reminder for not doing a single thing from your new year resolution for seven months and not doing it for next five.
