BIBLE STUDIES

Living for love

‘‘For whoever wants to save their life will lose it, but whoever loses their life for me will find it.

Matthew 16:25

Matthew 16:25 helps us to ask the question: ‘What was I created for?’ I almost died in a car accident when I was 18. I was faced with that question in a very deep and life transforming way. Why was I alive? And what for?

The words of Martin Luther King Jr woke me up: ‘Unless there is something you are willing to die for, you have nothing to live for.’ What was I willing to die for?

The more I searched the more I found myself drawn to the dreams of God for the world. I was made for loving God, all people and myself; because God does.

We are all created in God’s image. Anything or anyone that enslaves us or mars and diminishes the ability of others to see God’s glory or goodness opposes God. It keeps us from the very purpose of our lives: that we, like Jesus, would live for loving God and our neighbour.

God of love, you created us for love. Help us to embrace freedom from the slavery of hatred that we may embrace true liberty – as freely as if we have never been hurt before. Amen.

Rev René August

René is Co-director of The Justice Conference South Africa.

“for I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, 36 I was naked and you gave me clothing, I was sick and you took care of me, I was in prison and you visited me.”

Matthew 25:35-37

LENT COURSE 2021

Session 5:

Passing on the story of Jesus

Summary

This session attempts to scratch the surface on the many ways that the holy spirit enables us to share the good news, from miracles, to dreams, to giving us the words to say. By the end of the session, you will have explored some of the ways the holy spirit inspires and releases our evangelism and will be encouraged to step out in faith. The session also features a video interview. Video content will be added to the SPCK YouTube channel (https://cofe.io/SPCKYouTube) throughout Lent.

This session is based around Chapter 5 of Hannah Steel's book Living His Story. A featured passage is below, but you are encouraged to read the whole chapter as the questions often reference the book.

Featured Passage

One individual who follows where the Spirit leads is Philip. When persecution broke out, we learn that while the Apostles stayed in Jerusalem, many of the early followers of Jesus were scattered but that 'those who were scattered went from place to place, proclaiming the word' (Acts 8.4). This is one of those examples where God is mysteriously still at work even through a terrible situation or crisis. I was interested to hear at an online event during the lockdown of one girl who had tuned into an online church service. She commented that she didn't go to church, but her brother was involved in the service, and because she was missing him, she tuned in to watch. This experience had her interested in the Christian faith, which she then wanted to explore. It is incredible how often God works through extraordinary or difficult situations, or times when our plans go awry, to bring new opportunities.

One of those who found themselves unintentionally scattered to Samaria was Philip, one of the seven who had been chosen to wait upon tables as the church started to grow. The Spirit prompts Philip to go to the desert road to Gaza where he meets the Ethiopian eunuch. Luke tells us that this individual was a person of great influence, 'a court official of the Candace, queen of the Ethiopians, in charge of her entire treasury' (Acts 8.27). As Philip is told by the Spirit to travel alongside this man's chariot, he heard him reading out loud (as would have been normal practice) a pas-sage of Scripture from Isaiah. I suppose having a conversation with a stranger on public transport is the modern-day equivalent, although I have to say that in many years of such conversations, I have never met someone who 'just happened' to be reading Isaiah 53! Philip finds that the Spirit is at work in him enabling him to explain the Scriptures so that that this Ethiopian Chancellor of the Exchequer can hear and understand the good news of the risen Jesus. In fact, the response is so immediate that the Ethiopian eunuch commands the chariot to be stopped so that he can be instantly baptized in a nearby pool of water. We don't hear of this man again, but Luke tells us that he 'went on his way rejoicing' (Acts 8.39) and we presume he then returned to Ethiopia as the first Christian disciple in that great continent of Africa. When we stumble across a chance conversation with someone on the train or the bus, we cannot know the impact our words may have or the seeds sown that will bear fruit in places and locations other than our own. Stories like Philip's should encourage us to seize every opportunity that comes our way and trust the Spirit to be at work.

Video

For this session, there will be a video interview between Hannah Steele and Rev Canon Yemi Adedeji. This video will be available from 8thMarch 2021. Video content will be added to the SPCK YouTube channel (https://cofe.io/SPCKYouTube) throughout Lent.

Murdoch Mysteries

Murdoch Mysteries is a Canadian television drama series that premiered on Citytv on January 20, 2008, and currently airs on CBC. The series is based on characters from the Detective Murdoch novels by Maureen Jennings and stars Yannick Bisson as the fictional William Murdoch, a police detective working in Toronto, Ontario in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The series was titled The Artful Detective on the Ovation cable TV network in the United States, until season twelve.

The series takes place in Toronto starting in 1895 and follows Detective William Murdoch (Yannick Bisson) of the Toronto Constabulary, who solves many of his cases using methods of detection that were unusual at the time. These methods include fingerprinting (referred to as "finger marks" in the series), blood testing, surveillance, and trace evidence.

Some episodes feature anachronistic technology whereby Murdoch sometimes uses the existing technology of his time to improvise a crude prototype of a technology that would be more readily recognizable to the show's 21st-century audience. In one episode, for instance, he creates a primitive version of sonar to locate a sunken ship in Lake Ontario. In still another, a foreign police officer has a photograph that Murdoch needs as evidence, so Murdoch asks the other officer to overlay the photograph with a grid numerically coded for the colour in each square, and to transmit the numerical data to Murdoch via telegraph—with the end result that the foreign officer has essentially sent Murdoch a bitmap image they call a "facsimile"—a telefax. This aspect of the show has been described as introducing elements of the steampunk genre of science fiction, although it is not a standard theme of all episodes.

Detective Murdoch is assisted by the three other main characters: Inspector Brackenreid (Thomas Craig), Doctor Julia Ogden (Hélène Joy), and the inexperienced but eager Constable George Crabtree (Jonny Harris), who aspires to be a mystery novel writer.

married July 20, 2002 by Reverend Tony Bouwmeester.

While speaking the vows he asked my maid of honour, Wendy if she took Bryan to be her wedded husband. Thankfully it was during the rehearsal and not the wedding ceremony. He said it was a reminder to both of us to come to church more often so he could tell us apart.

Port Rowan

First named Cartwright's Landing, after John Cartwright, who arrived in 1793, Port Rowan has been known as Wolven's Landing and Dutcher's Corners, as subsequent settlers held title to the land. In 1819, Port Rowan was named for Colonel Rowan, secretary to the Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada. Port Rowan has long serviced the needs of the surrounding areas with numerous stores and businesses. Marinas and trailer parks in the Port Rowan area offer everything from birding, boating, fishing, sailing, and camping to winter ice fishing. Numerous accommodations are available in the area. Canada's first Forestry Station Interpretive Centre is located nearby, as well as the national headquarters of Bird Studies Canada, and the village and mill at Backus Heritage Conservation Education Centre. The Erie Shores Wind Farm has recently developed about 20 minutes west of Port Rowan on Norfolk County Road 42. And for sun worshippers, Long Point's sandy beaches are just minutes to the south.
